On January 8, 2008, William T. Parker, Author of "How Did You Get Here?" One Black Man's Journey through White Corporate America and President of ABG Financial Services, Inc. spoke to the Rotary Club of Sandy Springs.

"I have been a story teller almost from the time I learned to speak in coherent sentences. I have used that skill, developed over a life time, to share my experiences in this book. More importantly I am a "radical thinker," I have been told that I was "different" from my earliest memory, and I decided early on to use that "difference" to move in a direction contrary to the conventional wisdom. In the early Civil Rights demonstrations, which were designed to gain equal access to public accommodations, and then I decided to challenge the system by trying to break down the barriers to success in the corporate world.

My focus was to work my way up through the ranks of a major American corporation, and to help achieve economic parity for African Americans.

From the organization's website, "Rise Against Hunger is driven by the vision of a world without hunger. Our mission is to end hunger in our lifetime by providing food and life-changing aid to the world's most vulnerable and creating a global commitment to mobilize the necessary resources.

OUR HISTORY

In 1989, envisioning a world without hunger, Ray Buchanan – a United Methodist minister – founded Rise Against Hunger. Now headquartered in New Orleans, Rise Against Hunger has expanded to become Rise Against Hunger. After volunteering as a U.S. Marine during the Vietnam War, Ray Buchanan began his quest for meaningful change by accomplishing a mission regarded "commitment to something larger than yourself."

Since Ray Buchanan's death, the organization that endures hunger in more than just food, people, and places, but also in the hearts of those who are hungry and need to know that hunger can be ended. In honor of Ray Buchanan's legacy, we are seeking to create a global commitment to mobilize the necessary resources.

I started working in corporate America during the early years of the civil rights era.

My focus was to work my way up through the ranks of a major American corporation, and to help achieve economic parity for African Americans.

My objective now, is to reach into the hearts and minds of people with my story and to stimulate a new conversation about how young people today can deal effectively with the issue of race in the corporate environment.

Ultimately, I hope that "How Did YOU Get Here?" will inspire everyone to realize that life does not assign limitations to you based on other peoples perceptions.

Your dreams are always attainable."

Driving Rise Against Hunger's work is the recognition that ending hunger is more than just feeding people, which led Rise Against Hunger to focus its feeding programs in areas where we can have a real impact and expand its hunger-fighting programs beyond meal packaging and distribution.

If we can conquer
